NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—James F. Road, Chicago: Advice from Maine to 9 o'clock show

every Congressional district and every county carried, with 15,000 majority in the State.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 11.—The Portland vote

is the largest ever thrown. Deering gives 430

for each candidate, against last year: Republican, 844; Democratic, 415; Republican gain,

429. Portland, 300; Talbot, 323; Democratic majority, 67. In 1875, Republican,

161; Democratic, 311; Democratic majority,

50. Reed runs five behind the ticket there.

Scabrore 66 Republican gain, with Reed four behind.

These returns indicate L. B. Reed elected to Congress from the First District, despite the Republican bolt, by a handsome majority. Ten towns give Connor, 4,225; Talbot, 3,487. Majority, 1,138, against last year, Connor, 5,691; Roberts, 3,188; majority, 2,503. Republican gain, 688.

That does not include Portland, but takes in Augusta and Rockland.

Portland gives Connor, Republican, 3,890;

Talbot, Democrat, 2,394. Republican majority,

1,496. Portland, 3,890; Talbot, 2,394; Democratic majority, 1,496. Portland, 3,890; Talbot, 2,394; Democratic majority, 1,496. Portland, 3,890; Talbot, 2,394; Democratic ma-majority, 1,496. Portland, 3,890; Talbot, 2,394;

caused by Mr. Blaine's resignation, were chosen yesterday. The two tickets were as follows:

I. Thomas H. Reed, Democrat.

II. William F. Frye, Republican.

III. Stephen D. Lindsey, Democrat.

summary of his remarks:

In starting out, Mr. Schurz explained that, in consequence of his accident, he was laboring under physical disability to speak, so that he could not expect to deliver a long speech.

He said he had expected that Dan W. Voorhees would join him, but he had been disappointed.

higher, at $4.50 each and $4.00 for October. Rye was stronger, at $3.00. Barley closed at $1.75 for September or October. Hogs were in good demand, and advanced 50c, closing firm at $5.70 to $6.00. Cattle were quiet and weak, at $10.00 to $10.50. Sheep were scarce, at $2.50 to $3.00. One hundred dollars in gold would buy $110.25 in greenbacks at the close.

The Spanish officials not being able to procure a photograph of "Boss" Tilden, the boson friend of the Confederate candidate for the Presidency, made use of one of Nax's well-known caricatures, taken from a stray number of Harper's Weekly which found its way to Madrid. Copies were made and sent to all the Spanish towns. With what good result was told in yesterday's issue. Tilden was undergoing a season of quarantine, at the expiration of which he will be surrendered to the United States Government. As there is no direct steamship line between this country and Spain, he will be sent to New York via Cuba. Harper's Weekly and its accomplished artist once more place the lovers of an honest Government under obligations.

The Maine elections were held yesterday. The results are of a most gratifying character. In every district, in every hamlet, there were Republican gains, and in some instances the majorities were greater than in 1872. The Republicans made a clean sweep yesterday. The entire State ticket was elected, and from every Congressional, Senatorial, and Legislative District the Republican candidates were returned. The majority is estimated at 16,000, and this will no doubt be increased on the receipt of fuller returns. That Maine went Republican does not possess so much significance as she could not do otherwise as the fact that great gains were made over the majority of last year. It gives the vote to the hope with which the Democracy have been buoying up each other, that a large percentage of the elements of the Republican party had become dissatisfied and yearned for a change.

Earl DEXTER has finally given public expression to his sentiments on the Eastern controversy. In reply to denunciations from women's societies of London, he unhesitatingly declared that the Government had nothing to regret in pursuing the policy which it had adopted; that the Turkish question was the most sensitive point in European politics, and required the most consummate wisdom and moderation for its successful treatment. The Earl further asserted that any attempt to partition off the Turkish Empire would be the sure signal of a general European war, in which the objective point of all the Great Powers would be Constantinople. DEXTER believes in the principle of local self-government as applied to Egypt, Crete, and other Turkish provinces. Similar arrangements might, under pressure from the Great Powers, be made with the provinces now in insurrection, and this was the only feasible way of settling the existing difficulties.

M. W. GALT, a free-trader of Aiken, S. C., has succeeded in achieving a cheap immortality in his State, and wherever else chivalry, "chivalry," ah, abounds. A few days ago he made a speech at his ancestral home to an audience of reconstructed Rebels, who regard "nigger-jumping" as one of their special privileges. He told his hearers that South Carolina must be carried for TILDEN; and, in order to accomplish it, Gov. HANCOCK and other prominent Republicans, whom he named, must be killed. The negroes must be induced by armed men to vote "the right way." If they refuse, they must be shot down in their tracks. In a fine burst of eloquence he informed his auditors that if the Republicans party should succeed in carrying the State, it was the imperative duty of the Democrats to proceed to Columbia and tear the State House from its foundations; and the frenzied mob of unrepentant Rebels, who were in full sympathy with the speaker, howled their delight with infernal glee. It will strike all Republicans that the time has fully arrived for unfolding the "bloody shirt" when Union-haters like GALT, HANCOCK, and TILDEN hold the pirate flag.

INDIANA.
In less than 30 days the State election will take place in Indiana, and the importance of that election can hardly be exaggerated. In one sense the election in that State will determine the Presidential result in the United States. If Indiana elect HANCOCK Governor, then that will be the end of TILDEN and HANCOCK, and the election in November will be the mere formal expression of the will of the people officially stated. It is seldom that a national election can be thus practically determined by the result of an election for State officers in a single State.

The election of TILDEN requires that he shall, in addition to the votes of the Southern States, get the votes of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, California, and Iowa. Indiana is essential to his success; he can lose New York, he must get both States to be elected in any event. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa are all hopelessly beyond his reach. In New England he can only hope for Connecticut. The vote of the whole ex-slaveholding States is 138. Of these, South Carolina has 7, reducing all others to 131. It will require 185 votes to elect. But the Republicans are certain of Louisiana, 8; Mississippi, 8; Florida, 4; total, 20, unless the Tories are carried by force. This will leave Tilden 111, subject to a probable loss of North Carolina, 10. His vote in New York, 35; New Jersey, 9; California, 6; Connecticut, 6; Indiana, 15; Oregon, 3—total, 74, leaving him 111 short of an election. But assuming that he gets North Carolina 10, and 10 other votes from the other States, he will have at the utmost 194, including Indiana. The loss of Indiana reduces his possible vote to 179.

Here, then, it will be seen that, admitting all that Tilden's most earnest friends can claim, it will be seen that Indiana is as essential to his success as to lose Indiana is to lose all. His loss cannot be made good, for the party hopes, and there will practically be no contest in November. There is, therefore, no room for surprise at the extraordinary effort making under HANCOCK's personal efforts in Indiana. Every device or scheme to swell the Democratic vote will be resorted to. Illinois and Kentucky will be expected to furnish their contingents in October to save the Democratic party from disintegration a month before the Presidential election comes off.

While a victory in Indiana in October is vital to the Democratic party, its loss to the Republicans will be in no wise disastrous. The vote of Indiana is in no way essential to the election of HAYES and WHEELER. There are 161 votes as certain for HAYES as the vote of Vermont, and this does not include the following States: California, 6; New Jersey, 9; Oregon, 3; West Virginia, 5; New York, 35; Indiana, 15; Louisiana, 8; Mississippi, 8; North Carolina, 10; Colorado, 3; Florida, 4; total, 107. And in all these States the Republicans have much the better chances, in some of them an absolute certainty, if the polls be left free, and in case Indiana vote Republican in October will carry them all. Ohio has been removed from the chances, being practically abandoned to HAYES. If by any chance the Democrats shall carry Indiana in October, it will merely serve to protect the canvass; it will leave the Democrats able to say "There is yet hope." But even this will be of no avail if they merely carry the State. Unless they can elect WILLIAMS by 10,000 or 15,000 majority the prestige will be lost, and HANCOCK will be regarded as a useless appendage to the ticket.

Our friends in Indiana, therefore, have hardly to be reminded of the importance of the struggle on their hands. If they defeat WILLIAMS in October, they practically end the campaign. They strip TILDEN of the vote which is essential to his election; they proclaim the certainty of his defeat; and they declare to the admiring fact that the Democracy of the alliance between hard money and the rag-baby, and render HAYES' election certain by a majority greater than that of GRANT over GARFIELD.

THE CONFEDERATE SUPREMACY.

In the reign of the Democratic party before the war, the Southern wing of the party claimed and held control of all the important Committees in Congress. Whenever a vacancy occurred in the Chairmanship of a Committee a Southern man was appointed. One who had been 12 years Chairman of the Committee on Territories, refused to vote to admit Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution, and was deposed by vote, and a Missouri Senator put in his place. In this way at last there was but one Northern man left as Chairman of a Senate Committee, and that was JESSE D. BROWN. The past sessions of Congress witnessed the return of the Democracy to power in the House, and Mr. KEAR was compelled to award to the Southern and Confederate members the Chairmanship of the following Committees:

Turkey make much of the statement that only the Bash-Basouks committed the atrocities, not the regular troops. This is untrue. Wherever there were troops, as at Ouluk-Kut, they rivalled the Bash-Basouks in cruelty. There is no doubt in my mind that the massacres were committed with the sanction of the authorities. The present condition of the country is dein respect to which indictments were valid. Trade reluctantly withdrew this motion, and then proceeded to apply for a continuance on the ground of Wilkie's illness. Wilkie, he said, was prostrated upon a bed of sickness. Then followed a little legal sparring between Truett and Leithrop. In this the former instigated that
